

Permutation preserves dependence among region pairs by jointly permuting region labels.
Approximate administrative reference points represent geography.